To process your warranty, we will send you a new pump first and will send a return label in the box with the new pump so you can send us your old broken pump. We need your old pump back as a core surcharge to return to the manufacturer for credit. To do this, we ask for credit card information for individuals and dealers who do not have a credit account with us. If you are a dealer with credit account with us processing this warranty claim, please do not list any card info but read the following sentence. If you do not return the broken pump back for warranty within 30 days of us sending you the new pump, we will charge your card or account for a new pump at full price of the going rate at that time of the new pump we sent you plus shipping and tax if applicable. We may authorize your card for the amount of the pump plus shipping and tax if applicable before sending a new unit, this does not equvalate to a charge but it may make this amount unavailable on your card for spending until your bank drops it off or we charge the card for an unreturned pump. By agreeing to our warranty process you agree to pay any and all costs for new pumps, shipping and tax if applicable regarding the pump and any required parts you requested or need to complete the warranty process if you do not return the pump to us within the 30 days from us sending to you.
